Eric Asimov

It's an American success story, Immigrants come to New York to get jobs in a Mexican restaurant, work hard to learn the business, save enough money to invest in an automatic tortilla-making contraption & open their own place, the Fresco Tortilla Grill, which churns out a variety of tacos, fajitas & quesadillas, Not bad for Rose & Deshi Zheng, formerly of China.

A surprising ethnic formula? Not really, If you consider Jews who cook Italian food, like Mark Strausman of Coco Pazzo or Asians who have become French chefs, like Tadashi One of la Caravelle. "It doesn't matter what country you come from, as long as you know what you are doing." Said Mrs. Zheng, who handles the cash register & the telephone at the counter of this largely take-out operation, which she & her husband opened last summer.

Students, office workers & passers-by on roller skates pour in, many seem to be regulars. "Two 11's & a 25?" Mrs. Zheng asks as one middle-aged man rushes up to the counter. "Better make it one 11," he replies. "I gotta teach in 15 minutes." As the orders come in, Mr. Zheng goes to work, rolling small balls of dough & dropping them into the maw of the boxy metallic tortilla maker that the Zhengs ordered by mail from San Antonio. With a Rube Goldberg style whirl & hiccup, it emits flat circles of dough directly onto a grill, where the edges of the tortillas begin to curl & bubble as they sizzle. Behind him, a helper is chopping grilled meat, chicken & onions. When the tortillas are ready, Mr. Zheng assembles the ingredients into tacos & fajitas, deftly wrapping them for takeout or putting on a plate for immediate consumption. The taco al carbon ($1.99) remarkably tender sliced steak wrapped in a soft tortilla, still warm & dusted with flour is marvelously simple. A shot of hot sauce gives it a nice, peppery kick. Chicken fajitas ($1.79) are good just as tender as the steak, with grilled onions. The soft tacos are also available with black beans, cumin, ground chorizo, guacamole & chili.

Quesadillas sincronizadas combine two soft tortillas held together with melted Monterey Jack cheese & a variety of additions. The cheese & black bean quesadilla ($2.69) is particularly good & filling.

"Golden Monkey. It served the most consistent fresh Chinese food in the neighborhood. The New York City is overwhelming when it comes to eating out nearly 16,000 places to choose from. The best one is Golden Monkey. The service is excellent, and the food certainly jogs the memory about joys of Szechuan."

"Finding the real Chinese in Queens with a man who is famous for knowing what it is"

Ken Hom, who lives in Berkeley, Calif. and Paris, became famous for his eight books on Chinese food had tasted GOLDEN MONKEY. The food was incredibly good; Mr Hom was impressed. The menu calls vegetable rolls; bean curd skins so crisp they crackled with each bite were filled with juicy bean sprouts and brushed with a thick and pungent sesame sauce, "make each bite a psychedelic, experience" said Mr. Hom. Talking another bite, "Have you noticed all of this food is properly salty? It makes you want to just keep eating!" Mr Hom exclaimed again.

HOW TO READ THIS MENU:

1. The main courses are divided into two categories: one is "American Chinese food" that you can easily found in any other Chinese restaurants. Another is "authentic Sichuan food" that is a special cooking style from Sichuan province in China, and you can hardly found in this neighborhood.
2. Sichuan food is famous for its spicy and peppery taste. You will even found peppery corns in some dishes. If you don't like spicy or peppery taste, tell us in advance and the similar dishes will be cooked without spicy or peppery corn.
3. The basic technique of Sichuan cooking is "sauteed" (quick sauteed) or stir fry which is the fundamental difference from the Western cooking. For sauteed, more or less, has to use oil as a carrier, a media or a protector to help cooking. Anyway, we try our best to use the least oil to cook the healthy food.
4. Chef and cooks come from Sichuan province where they were trained and had 10 or 20 years cooking experiences. However, their professional skills are originally for sichuanese. Under this circumstances, they have to adjust their cooking method or style to meet Americans' needs.
5. Cold dishes and most appetizers are Sichuan style. Most vegetable dishes including potato and pumpkin dishes, are typical Sichuanese family ones.
   Recommend spicy dishes: Braised whole fish with hot bean sauce, Double cooked pork, Ma po to fu, Quizhou spicy chicken, Prawn with garlic sauce, Sichuan wonton with red oil, Sichuan cold noodle.
   Recommend not spicy Dishes: Smoked tea duck, Red cooking spare ribs, Dry & sauteed string bean, Potatoes with vinegar sauce, Cold asparagus with scallion sauce, Sour string beans with minced pork (or beef).
